

ZBS AUDIO ADVENTURES

2015 EDITION

“Keep going, I know it’s there somewhere.”

Anne Manx and the Blood Chase

Anne Manx is dying! In the spellbinding sixth installment, Anne (Claudia Christian, Babylon 5), the galaxy’s finest P.I., trails a cryptic clue to Balduria seeking to save her life. Hot on her tail, the flame-haired fiend, Jean Richmond (Patricia Tallman, Babylon 5, Night of the Living Dead 1990) is going to steal the secret to multiple lives for herself.

Jam-packed with fast-paced dialog and two-fisted double entendres, Anne Manx and the darkly duplicitous Brighid (Moira Kelly, One Tree Hill, West Wing, The Lion King) spiral into danger as they try to outwit Chief Arum (Jerry Robbins, Powder River, Beacon Hill) and the entire planet who are literally out for their blood. 2 hours.

Ruby Refreshed, Complete

Composer Tim Clark spent months re-creating the music for Ruby, the Adventures of a Galactic Gumshoe. Why did he redo the music? When Ruby was produced in 1981, we had synthesizers and dinky drum machines, but none of the realistic computer-driven musical instruments we have today. Ruby is a great series, but we knew it could be even better. Tim kept the original Ruby sound track, but gave it so much more punch and pizzazz. He gave Ruby a fresh new sound. 2 hours.

The Secret of the Crystal Maidens

While exploring a cave in Belize, Jack Flanders hears a voice calling his name. Deep within, he discovers a woman who appears to have grown up out of the cave floor. Her entire body is covered in tiny calcite crystals. Jack wonders, "Is she a Mayan goddess of the Underworld?" And then he wakes up.

Jack continues having these dreams of being lost in a cave, until finally in the jungles of Belize, he finds the cave he's been dreaming about. And within, he discovers something even more extraordinary, the skulls of two crystal maidens. The words they whisper to him not only affect his future, but also the lives of those who hear his story. 2 hours.

Saratoga Noir

Saratoga Springs has an amazing history, the oldest racetrack in the country, the old gambling casinos, the spas and healing spring waters, and some pretty shady characters.

Danny Boyee, a local private investigator, is hired to find a Balinese pussy wearing a very expensive diamond collar. Vicki Millhouse, an ex-showgirl who married into old Saratoga money, hires Danny to find her kidnapped cat. But something that appears so simple, quickly turns into danger and intrigue for unsuspecting Danny.

And as a bonus, the audio comes with a comic strip drawn by Genevieve Shapiro. 20 episodes, 2 hours.

Shadows in the Night

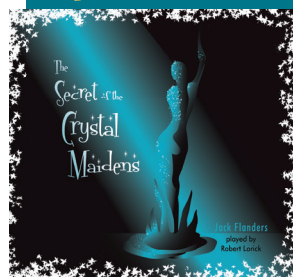

A Dixon & Sparks Mystery

Polly's sister, Margo Parker worked for a tech company called Enochian Incorporated. When she didn't like what she saw, Margo quit. Now she feels they've come after her, using subliminal mind techniques that have gone beyond mere technology.

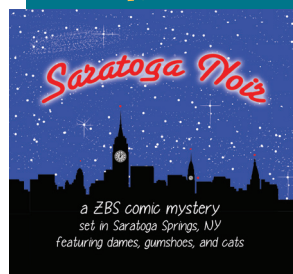

Dixon's Uncle Hans arrives from Munich with bionic glasses for Taylor Dixon, who is visually impaired. When the bionic glasses are activated, Dixon begins to see herself detached from her body, looking back at herself. One evening in a New York restaurant, Dixon observes two translucent beings floating in the air whispering strange words to Margo as she slowly goes into a trance. 1 hour.

Jack Flanders Adventures

Dreams of Tiffany Blue

In Placencia, Belize, Jack Flanders meets Friedrich, the owner of a bar called, "Fat Freddy's." Jack knew his brother Klaus back in Rio de Janeiro. Shortly before Klaus died, he sent Friedrich a blue crystal stone, along with a note, "Hear this for me."

Later, when Jack and Mojo are talking to a waitress at Fat Freddy's, she suggests, "Why not build a cat's-whisker crystal radio?" They do, and begin to pick up music that sounds ancient and alien. Listening late one night, Jack hears a woman's voice accusing him, "You! You!!"

He begins to have disturbing dreams, being lost in the jungle, coming upon a moonlit Mayan temple covered with black orchids. At the top is the Guardian, a gigantic stone jaguar. Later, Jack discovers where the actual Jaguar Temple is located.

At the base of the pyramid, he once again dreams of the mysterious woman who takes him by the hand and leads him down into the depths of the temple. 2 hours.

Classic Jack Flanders

The Fourth Tower of Inverness

This classic story is filled with all kinds of teachings, from Ram Dass playing on the Wurlitzer of Wisdoms, to the Tibetan wheel-of-life, to Sufi stories, all woven into a humorous adventure taking place in an old mansion called Inverness. The mansion has three towers, but Jack Flanders has seen a fourth. When he finally enters the tower, he discovers there are various levels, and each level contains another world. 7.5 hours.

Dinotopia Suite

Tim has sifted through hours of music he created for Dinotopia and has woven together a CDs worth of the best.
Here is some of the finest music Tim has ever composed. He calls it a "Suite" and so it is.

Not only is Dinotopia a terrific book, an excellent story, lavishly illustrated, but also a really neat ZBS audio production, with sounds we recorded in Java, Sumatra, and Bali.
And weaving it all together is Tim's amazing music.

Infidel

Infidel is a compelling historical drama about two brothers torn apart by the horrors of the Fifth Crusade.

Based on contemporaneous accounts of the Fifth Crusade, Infidel exposes many historical parallels that shed a disturbing light on the conflicts of today. A drama that challenges the fundamentalist architects of war, Infidel examines the contradictions between self-righteous belief and human compassion. This production was selected by BBC Radio 4 as among 'the best radio dramas in the English speaking world'. 2 hours.

The Last Harbinger

An Elegy for Shadows Fleeting in Twilight

A strange Harbinger is sent on a mission. The people of Moloch are running out of time. Their seas are dead, the ice caps are gone, the air is filled with toxins. Moloch is swallowing itself. The Harbinger brings the truth, but can truth save a world from self-destruction? This is a pull-no-punches satiric parable for our time. Excellent production. Also featuring Phil Proctor of Firesign. 2.5 hours.

Mojo and Little Frieda Mysteries

Mojo's Vest Pocket Voodoo Adventures

Mojo is given a pocket watch from someone he's never met, a detective named "Rufus." The watch has no hands, only an opaque face like a Zombie's eye.

Mistaken for Rufus, he's hired to find Angelina, the missing sister of a Philadelphia gangster. By using his watch as a portal, Mojo is able to look beyond the veils of this world; he traces Angelina to a mysterious train, The Voodoo Express.

He discovers that Rufus is being pursued by Baron La Croix, a man with a not-very-nice sense of humor. Mojo is able to get aboard The Voodoo Express; getting off is another matter. 1 hour.

SARATOGA

Saratoga Springs

Life in Small Town America

Here is the complete series that aired daily on National Public Radio. It was described by Weekly Variety as: A sort of avant-garde Peyton Place without the angst fascinating, thoroughly offbeat ... handled with a light touch and a good deal of whimsy.

A few of the characters are actually real, playing themselves, others are not, but modeled after some of the locals. It's charming, humorous, even quite witty. There's also a fair degree of truth. Saratoga Springs has a rich history; the racetrack, the spas, the gambling casinos, the classy old hotels, along with some pretty amazing characters that have passed through. It's all woven within the story.

The Night Has Begun

Polly Parker believes someone has put a curse on her fiancé, Clifford Barnett. Clifford and his partner, Alan Hendrix are headhunters, they find executives to run companies. Polly suspects, and so does Dixon, it may be a real headhunters curse.

Dixon's friend, Orpheus, knows all about curses. He sends her to see Dr. Delbert Pew, an anthropologists at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Delbert has lived among the Asmat headhunters of Papua New Guinea. While he takes them on a tour of the Met's incredible collection of primitive art, Dixon exclaims, "Oh my god, these things are alive!" Delbert confirms, "The Asmat believe their ancestor's spirits actually live within the works of art."

But a headhunter's curse in Manhattan? And yet, Hendrix and Barnett have been receiving frightening phone calls in the night. When Dixon & Sparks begin receiving calls on their cell phones, they suspect if this is an Asmat curse, then the primitive headhunters have gone hi-tech.

Ruby 9.5 “Who Knows How This Ends?”

We wanted to have this ready by the holidays, but the production is so complex, there are so many sounds, plus Tim Clark’s music, we decided to take our time and get it right.

In the jungles of the Great Zeezeeboos, on the planet of Summa Nulla, is Oroboros, an automated “City of the Future.” But the future has passed, the city is abandoned.

Ruby receives a message from Toots Mutant of the Zoot Mutants saying that And/Or and the Digital Circus entered Oroboros and disappeared. So Ruby, T.J. Teru, and Rodant Kapoor travel to Oroboros in the sweltering jungles of the Great Zeezeeboos where they discover the city is no longer abandoned, in fact, it’s now alive!
